

OCE is a nonprofit organization (501c3) that partners with Ethiopian community leaders; local organizations; national, regional, and local government agencies; and educational institutions across the country to end Ethiopia's cycle of abandonment.

We are mobilizing a movement of local partners and leaders to address the physical, mental, and spiritual needs of Ethiopia's vulnerable children.

Join us! Together, let's end the cycle of abandonment and provide help and hope to children in need.

Ethiopia's orphans need your help

Nearly 5 million children — 5% of Ethiopia's population—are orphans.

Many of these children live on the streets, in orphanages, or are trapped in trafficking and child labor.

Ethiopia's orphaned children deserve a transforming love and an abundant life.

You can help us make this happen.

My heart was changed the moment I saw the children

On a 2015 trip to Ethiopia, my husband and I visited an orphanage. After returning to our current home in the U.S., I could not forget the faces of the children. By 2017, we had adopted twin sons from an orphanage in Addis Ababa and brought them to our home in Washington DC. Even after such personal action, I could not stop thinking about the millions of remaining orphans who could be helped through the blessing of family.

Then, I had a vision for OCE: a sustainable model that is now rescuing orphans through volunteers in Ethiopia. OCE works with local communities, other nonprofits, and Ethiopian local and national governments to address the orphan challenge in Ethiopia through domestic adoption, advocacy, and education.

Now the OCE vision has become the OCE movement. Join us!

Naomi Haile, FOUNDER & EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, OCE
